WEST SIDE HIGH SCHOOL

Newark, New Jersey

DEDICATION

Five, ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five—yes, for twenty-five years our high school has been in existence. That is more years than we are old. Graduation in itself is a momentous occasion and, to make it even more momentous, it comes in this year of the school's twenty-fifth anniversary.

West Side, your grateful class of June, 1951, dedicates its beloved yearbook, The Lamp, to you on your silver anniversary. May the coming years be as full and as happy as ours have been.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY

HOW MANY of us who walk the halls of West Side know its history? Very few!

How many of us know that the history of the site of our school goes all the way back to 1666? Very few! The land on which West Side stands first belonged to Old First Church as a part of a land grant in 1666. It remained farmland until James Keen made it his home in 1834. In 1884 it was purchased by the Board of Freeholders for $23,750 for the purpose of building the Essex County Hospital for the insane. Forty-one years later, 1925, the Board of Education bought the property as the site for the new high school. The property was sold for $238,750.

The bids for the construction of the building itself were opened on April 30, 1925. The original plans were prepared by James O. Betelle. The building was to cost $850,000 and accommodate 1500 pupils. It was to have laboratories, three gymnasiums, art rooms, a medical room, and administration offices.

West Side opened its doors on September 8, 1926. The building was not yet fully equipped. Debris was still evident, and workmen could be seen and heard throughout the building. Classes started on September 14, 1926, with Mr. Alan Johnson as principal. There were 520 boys and 273 girls enrolled. The school was to be completely academic. The boundaries at that time were stated as: Avon Avenue, Bergen Street, West Market Street, and the city line. There were forty-three members of the faculty the first term.

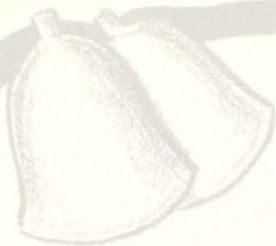

As the years progressed West Side underwent a few changes. In February, 1929, the wings of the school were added. These wings consisted of fifteen classrooms and physical training rooms. Two years later the building was found to be inadequate for the number of students in the Vailsburg section. Finally in September, 1931, a double session was inaugurated. At that time only freshmen attended in the afternoon. With the addition of the new wing and the starting of the double session, and in 1938 the addition of the commercial courses, West Side's population changed until there were four girls to every boy.

Our school has had three principals—Alan Johnson, Reyburn Higgins and Francis B. Snively with Edgar K. Dawson as acting principal after the departure of Reyburn Higgins.

This school has served as a cradle for promotion, a stepping stone to its faculty. Mr. Alan Johnson went on to become Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Newark. Mr. Joseph Liddy climbed the ladder to become Director of Physical Education in the city. These are just two of the many faculty members who have left West side to win for themselves further recognition in their particular fields.

With this knowledge in hand, we, the Class of June, 1951, would like to express our congratulations to you, West Side, on your Silver Anniversary.

SCHOOL SONG

In morn - ing light and eve - ning fall, Through all the days of com - ing years In times when glow - ing fu - tures call In hearts with laugh - ter and with tears Our love for you will nev - er die. Oh, Al - ma Ma - ter West Side High Our love for you will nev - er die Oh Al - ma Ma - ter West Side High.

In morning light and evening fall,
Through all the days of coming years—
In times when glowing futures call—
In hearts with laughter and with tears,
Our love for you will never die,
Oh, Alma Mater, West Side High.
Our love for you will never die,
Oh, Alma Mater, West Side High.

This love we have for you has grown
More bright than any treasured gold,
It deepens through each friend we've known.
Each truth that to our hearts is told.
Within the shelter of your walls,
Within the rooms where wisdom calls.
Our love for you will never die,
Oh, Alma Mater, West Side High.

Though we have need to wander far,
Close in our hearts your name will be.
Your goodness, like a radiant star,
Will rise with every memory,
And having these sweet dreams of you,
We shall remember and be true.
Our love for you will never die,
Oh, Alma Mater, West Side High.

In morning light and evening fall,
Through all the days of coming years,
In times when glowing futures call,
In hearts with laughter and with tears,
Our love for you will never die,
Oh, Alma Mater, West Side High!
Our love for you will never die,
Oh, Alma Mater, West Side High!

SPRING

*In spring
Birds Sing
Like bells
That ring.*

*They bring
A song
Of love's
Young dream.*

*All things
In spring
Are bells
That ring.*

JUANITA HENDERSON

AUTUMN

*In autumn,
The trees' outstretched arms are shunned
By the birds,
And so they shed their tears of leaves.*

*But following the birds
On their heartless way
Are blown the leaves,
Reminders of their infidelity.*

JOSEPHINE ALBANESE

SYMPHONY

*The winds run through the trees tonight,
And play a symphony of leaves.
The moon looks on upon their rite,
And with its dust a blanket weaves.*

*The breath of Day is tired and still.
To rest once more Her weary head
She treads so softly to the distant hill,
And makes the quiet vale Her bed.*

*The fleecy clouds sweep by the skies,
While peeping stars gleam through their foam.
Then when Day finally shuts Her eyes
Her cheery friends all cease to roam.*

*The laughing tinkles of cool streams,
The verdant oceans of tall grass,
The warmth and color of sunbeams,
The bowery green of a woodland pass.*

*These stately works of a summer day
That Nature all does proudly show
Now in their mystic slumber lay,
As waning hours slowly go.*

*And as I watch these nightly scenes,
An imperfect glow comes into sight,
Producing yet statelier design . . .
Behold! the entrance of twilight.*

THEME SONG

She stood in front of the thirty disinterested students and said in her over sweet voice, "Open your grammar books to page 124, please". The usual undertone of groans and comments were heard from one student to another. But, one by one, we opened our marred grammar books to page 124.

A small sheet of paper was handed out and a simple little quiz, as Miss Karle so inaptly called it, was thrust upon us. For the next few days, or was it years, Miss Karle pounded on one little subject. "Mary saw a mouse unpacking her trunk." That was Miss Karle's pet example of that one terrible bit of incorrect grammar. It grew to be a crime worthy of capital punishment if anyone dared dangle a poor dejected little participle.

One day, we were asked to write a short composition, and so we assumed we had heard the last of the dangling participle. The following day Miss Karle asked us to read our papers aloud. One by one, we staggered to the front of the middle row. Not the first row, nor the fifth row—it had to be the middle row! As each one read his short masterpiece, the inevitable seemed bound to happen, and it did. Carole Brand was calmly reading her slightly boring composition, when suddenly Miss Karle shouted.

"Stop, stop, don't you dare read another word!"

But why was Miss Karle's face so flushed? Why was she shouting like the wild woman of Borneo? There is no need to go into the gruesome details, for poor Carole had dangled a participle.

That was the beginning of the end of an enjoyable semester. "Mary saw a mouse unpacking her trunk", became an immortal phrase.

DISILLUSIONED

*It was eight when he came, as expected.
The house was prepared with such care,
As to candy, and coke and—oh, yes!
There were pretzels next to his chair.*

*The talk was of school and of weather.
I spoke ever gently and sweet.
At the end of a sentence he'd reach for
Some pretzels from next to his seat.*

*I started playing records for dancing.
I said, "Dance?" He said, "I don't care."
I winced as his hand reached out for
Some pretzels from next to his chair.*

*At nine, I brought cokes from the kitchen
What was coming, I could easily tell.
I held my breath as he murmured,
'Gee, with pretzels this oughta taste swell!'*

*I thought he would never stop talking,
So, suggested we go for a ride,
But he sat there incessantly munching
The pretzels so close at his side.*

*At eleven, I sat there defeated,
I was beaten, disgusted, and numb.
He'd gone, but so had the pretzels,
Of them there was left not a crumb.*

*Not a crumb, from a WHOLE bag of pretzels.
I could only amazedly stare.
I sat there and thought, "Ne'er again."
Would pretzels be next to his chair!!*

SWEET GIRL GRADUATE THIRTY YEARS LATER

LINKED HANDS

*Chaucer, Pythagoras, Galileo,
Brilliant all, and doubtless great;
Each has made his own impression,
Indelible, upon our fate.*

*Eminent personalities
Were guides along the way;
Perhaps of greater import,
Were friends who wouldn't stray.*

*Linked minds made up a chain for us
To bring us education
Linked hands, however, filled our souls,
That we might taste elation.*

TESSIE DEMAS

Deep inside she felt that all radicals had little red horns hidden under their hair, or under the scalp if they were bald, and that the Democrats would be the ruin of the country. Cyril J. Pentrose, her husband, she regarded as a firm pillar of the community, in spite of his regrettable preference for poker games over lectures which improved the soul.

Often at P. T. A. meetings, she would say that it was families like hers that were the backbone of the American nation. Her club women thought her an "awfully good talker" and were delighted with her reports on "What the World is Coming to".

When Mrs. Pentrose bothered to think about herself, she envisioned a cultured matron who could always be counted on to create the proper atmosphere of cheerful culture. She delighted in speaking to girls' clubs on the "Future of American Womanhood" and never could understand why they snickered when she referred to herself as a "Light to Guide Young Souls".

NATURE'S BEAUTY

*It's impossible, you say,
To see through your nose?
But that's the way a blind girl
Might see a rose.*

*She will touch the velvet-like petals,
With her sensitive fingers.
But only the sweet smell
In her memory lingers.*

PAULA HOUSMAN

THE OLD DAYS

*Remember the days we planned to be husband and wife,
You with the fork and me with the knife?
I'd iron your shirts and darn your socks,
And you'd hammer and nail all of the locks.
We'd have dinner at home by candlelight
And like all married people we'd start to fight.
I'd scratch out your eyes, you'd pull my hair
And both of us would get a terrific scare.
Our likes and dislikes have always varied,
That's why I'm not getting married.*

JANET CRISCUOLO

A CENTURY IN THE MAKING

I remember clearly standing there in awe over the strange quiet of the old house. Even as I write, I feel myself sinking into the same mood of depression as though I were there again this very moment. Stately it stood, with dignity, even now in its present ugliness. The thing that impressed me most was the majestic serenity about the house—a somber, silent beauty that comes with old age.

The grounds about the house were in horrible disorder. The trees and shrubbery were entangled, forming grotesque figures that volleyed shadows in the moonglow and added to the weirdness of the tall windows and the leaning pillars. I stood there partly dazed, staring at the entire picture and I felt as though this house and the gardens sparkled in their unforgotten loveliness. Then, as abruptly as it had come, the illusion was gone. The wind heaved a mournful sigh through the trees as though it too had been teased by the short glimpse.

Francis B. Snavely

PRINCIPAL

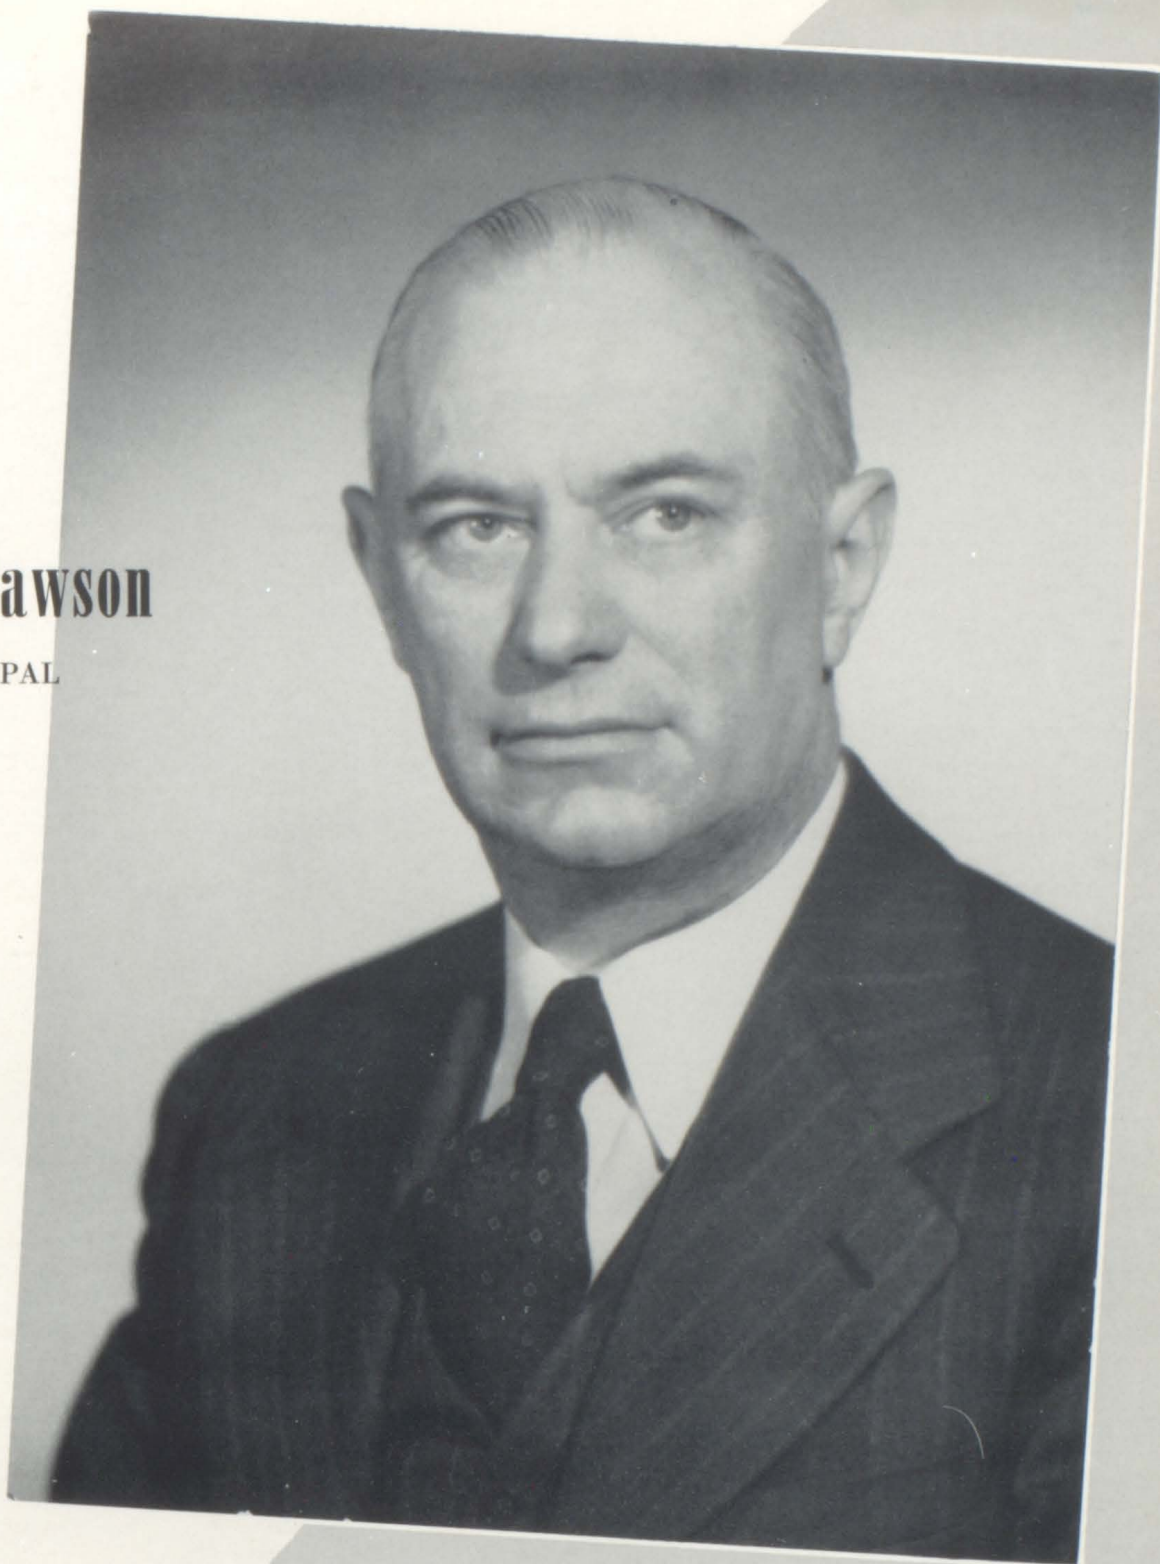

Now that the first great goal of your life educationally has been reached, you are going to feel a bit lost, in fact, may even experience a mite of homesickness. Some years ago you would probably have laughed at the idea of having real feelings of fondness for your old school. But, we all look back on those days with many heartfelt memories and high school is something that we cherish in our hearts for all time to come.

We have always wanted and intended that West Side should mean much to you, both scholastically and socially. We hope you are leaving with a feeling that your life has been enriched by your stay with us. We shall miss you too, of course—most of you—but we are anxious that you should go on to bigger and better things. We want to hear of you in the years to come in an exemplary light.

My advice to you on parting is to urge you to plan the career you really want now. Take a firm command on yourself now. Take a long-range view now. It is all right to “hitch your wagon to a star”, but also you must have your feet on the ground now. Do Face Forward Resolutely.

People Are Like That

The strangest little things flatter the human ego. Let anybody say, "I don't see how you do it," and we beam stupidly. The accomplishment to which they refer is probably just that we can get along on six hours sleep, remember old baseball scores, or endure cold showers on winter mornings. Nobody, that is to my knowledge, knows why this should make us feel superior, but it does. I have discovered that we are smuggest about trifles.

To study this odd trait, all one has to do is to compliment his fellow being on any trivial matter that comes to mind. In my unscientific studies, I have concluded that the compliments which please us most are those which point out the differences, no matter how slight and even silly, from the rest of the human race. One day, for instance, I had a sore throat, and the doctor who painted it observed that I gagged less than most people. This made me proud for days. And just as

I was beginning to come down to earth again, a shoe salesman said that I had "flexible feet."

Thus, we build up our egos out of straws. We are proud of our illnesses and, on the other hand, we are vain of our health. We boast that we never have a headache as though this were something we had achieved ourselves. If we are able to baffle the doctors, we never let our friends hear the end of it.

We also have our pet weaknesses which we gleefully admit in pitiful tones: "I just don't know anything about the arts." Of course, we are much too busy nowadays to have any time for reading and it's absolutely terrible how unpunctual we are. We can't write letters—just can't seem to get around to them. And as for facing the day until we've had our cup of coffee, well, the thing's impossible. Self-confessions, such as these make us feel important, proud, and romantic.

THE GREEN AND WHITE ASSOCIATION

During the term of September 1947 plans were made for a student organization. Delegates were chosen from each homeroom to attend a constitutional convention. The convention branched off into committees to plan a constitution and to discuss the various forms of constitutions in use in other schools. Several names were suggested for the title of the organization and were given to the students to decide upon. A vote in the homerooms resulted in the choice of the "Green and White Association." (G. W. A.)

Later a constitution was drawn up and approved by students and teachers. The G. W. A. was formed to encourage the growth of good citizenship and self-government, to give to the students of West Side a sense of responsibility for their school, and to provide for the general welfare and betterment of the student body.

Among the achievements of the G. W. A. this term was the loaning of money to the cheerleaders for new uniforms, the selling of membership cards, and the running of very successful dances.

We, the class of June 1951, sincerely wish the school government all the success in the coming years and leave with the knowledge that the G. W. A. will rise to great heights.

Class Will

We, the graduating class of June 1951, of West Side High School, (in the city of Newark) being of brilliant mind, though a bit fuzzy around the edges, do hereby make this our last will and testament.

To Mr. Snavely we leave our deep and sincere respect for the understanding he has shown toward us.

To Mr. Dawson we leave six extra hands to help juggle next terms' schedule.

To Miss Allerdice we leave our thanks for showing us how to bring up our future children.

To Mr. Bennett we leave a few spare smiles for him to try on for size.

To Miss Clarke we leave future yearbook worries.

To Mr. Dudas we bequeath the soft job of catching up with the truants.

To Mr. Esposito we leave the task of forming a new dance band: if that's what he calls it.

To Miss Fisher we leave all of our term reports. May they rest in pieces.

To Mrs. Fitzsimmons we leave the pleasant aroma of hydrogen sulfide. So prevalent in the chem. lab.

To Dr. Forrester we leave our futures (?) which she helped us to choose.

To Mr. Hallock—Muchas gracias, por las lecciones, de espanol. Adios. Trans. Many thanks for the Spanish lessons. Goodby.

To Mr. Hartzell we leave hope for another All-State cross-country team.

To Mrs. Hartzell we leave Mr. Hartzell.

To Mr. Hoke we leave the tradition of Robert E. Lee.

To Miss Johnston we leave a carload of thimbles.

To Mr. Kriegsfeld we leave a lifetime subscription of the World Almanac, book of facts.

To Dr. Lewis we leave the job of getting used to the G. W. A. All the luck in the world.

To Mr. Long we leave a new supply of shovels and sandboxes for his next kindergarten.

To Mrs. Offenkrantz we leave our regrets that she's married woof-woof.

To Mr. Ormond we leave a book of Edgar Allen Poe's works.

To Mr. Peterson we leave Mr. Long's trumpet. You could probably play it better than he.

To Mrs. Rosenberg we leave next term's assembly programs with all it's headaches.

To Mr. Rosenberg we leave another plea for new uniforms for our teams.

To Mr. Spear we bequeath a new motorboat to replace the rowboat he uses to get to his summer cottage.

To Mrs. Stevens we leave our thanks for helping us as our class adviser.

To Mr. Thornton we leave behind us hope for another 200 lb. line.

To Miss Walton we leave the odor of the cooking rooms, second only to the Chemistry Lab.

To the 4B's we leave behind the air of importance that we have enjoyed for a term. We leave them the right to boss the lower classes and to regard them with a superior air (although you better not get caught by Mr. Snively). We also bequeath all unused detained slips to the 4B's.

To the Faculty we leave an award for tolerance above and beyond the call of duty, for putting up with us for 3 years.

To the incoming sophomores of West Side we leave our deepest sympathy. They'll need it.

And last but not least:

To West Side we leave behind us the best three years of our lives.

THE SENIORS

Helen A. Clarke

This Graduating Class of June 1951 wishes to express its sincere thanks and deep gratitude to Miss Helen A. Clarke for her ever-willing efforts and splendid guidance in helping to make our yearbook a chest of treasured memories for every classmate.
